SHOULD THINK VICTORY FIRST

FAITH NECESSARY TOO, PRATHER TELLS GRADUATES.

CITES LIFE OF PAUL

Famous Biblical Character Fought On In Spite Of Many Obstacles, Baptist Minister Says in Sermon.

An attitude of victory coupled with an undying faith in God will assure success in every worth-while enterprise, was the message given to the Maryville High School graduates by the Rev. Guy L. Prather, pastor of the Baptist Church, in the baccalaureate address at the Christian Church last night.

The Reverend Mr. Prather vividly illustrated his theme with incidents in the life of Paul, including the defeats and triumphs of the great Biblical character

The baccalaureate address was based on the text, "I can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth me."

"First of al' Paul spoke in the language of ability, of resources, of victory, of power," Mr. Prather began. "He followed no blazed trail made smoother by those who had gone before him. There was no one to show him how to build churches or how to do missionary work. He did his work single-handed and alone, under the direction of his God."

But Paul faced opposition from his own and other people, the Reverend Mr. Prather reminded the graduates. In spite of this, however, he went forward with his work, assumed an attitude of victory and triumphed in his work.

"Paul had no thought of weakness, the speaker continued. "He felt equal to the task. He thought in terms of victory and not in terms of defeat.

"Paul used the language of victory, of activity, of constant work. Nothing can take the place of hard work in field or shop or school. Your training is not for ease but it is for work. Education is not to fit you to make money easier, but it is to enable you to do more and better work."

Finally, Paul spoke in the language of faith and trust, the speaker concluded.

"There is strength in faith, providing that faith is well placed. There is nothing that weakens us like misplaced confidence, but there is nothing that helps us like a faith that proves true throughout the years. 'Trust in God and work' is a good motto for us all. With this faith and this attitude of victory, your field is limitless."

The Rev. S. P. Allison, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, presided at the union services last night and pronounced the invocation. The Rev. R. A. Mitchell delivered the prayer and benediction. A vocal solo was given by Mrs. F. P. Robinson.

SPEAKS ABOUT THE C. M. T. C.

COL. BUTTS OF KANSAS CITY AT HIGH SCHOOL.

IS BEHIND IN QUOTA

Nodaway County Allowed Thirteen Applicants and None Received at Headquarters Up To Date.

As Nodaway County has been slow in filling out its quota of thirteen in the Seventh Corps Area to the Civilian Military Training Camps this summer, Col. E. L. Butts of Kansas City was here today in the interest of the C. M. T. C.

The visitor spoke at the high school assembly this morning. He told the students that the government always received more applications than it had appropriations to provide for the quartering and training of the youthful citizens of this country at the summer training camps.

Colonel Butts especially emphasized the point that the government was not so specially interested in receiving an oversupply of aplications to these camps as it was in getting the highest type of American youths from each district in the respective corps areas of the United States.

Up to the present time Colonel Butts said that at the headquarters in St. Louis there have been no applications received from Nodaway County for the C. M. T. C. this summer. The Civilian Military Training Camps, which continue for the month of August, have received the recommendations of each governor in every state of the Seventh Corps Area and of the fathers and mothers who have had sons in attendance at the camps during previous years.

The camps are always open for inspection and the mothers of the boys especially invited to visit the camps at any occasion.

Boys, from this county whose applications are approved for training camps this summer, will be sent to Des Moines, Ia. However, they have the option of going to any of the other C. M. T. C. by paying the difference of railroad fare, as all expenses, clothing, quarters, and mileage are allowed by the government to the nearest camp.

Colonel Butts said that the government was eager to give every county a chance for equal representation at the C. M. T. C. and it was for purpose of arousing an interest in the youths of Nodaway County for the camps this summer that he was here today.

Colonel Butts has had a distinguished record during his service in the army. During the world War was a brigadier-general with the American forces in Europe and received the distinguished cross, one of the highest merit awards of Congress. It is only given for extraordinary bravery displayed in the presence of the enemy above and in the face of duty.

Colonel Butts was accompanied to the High School by Major Rolf Raynor and Lieut. E. V. Condon. He came in contact with a number of the College students during the track meet this afternoon.

Plan to Release Bodies of Normand Passengers

Steamer May Be Jarred Loose and It Is Hoped Rescue Workers Can Obtain Victims.

Memphis, Tenn., May 11.—Major Donald H. Connolly of the United States engineers declared today that the steamer Normand, lying at the bottom of the Mississippi River sixteen miles from here, probably would be jarred loose today to release the bodies of the victims imprisoned. Preparing for this possibility, a small fleet of fast motor boats will be kept patrolling the river today while the rescue work goes on, in the hope that the bodies, if released will rise to the surface of the water.

TRIBUTE PAID TO MOTHERS

DAY IS BECOMING MORE POPULAR EVERY YEAR.

RECORD SALES MADE

All Firms Selling Merchandise Appropriate For Occasion Report Best Business In Event's History.

That Mothers Day is growing in popularity year after year is evidenced by the increasing business in flowers, candy, greeting cards, telegrams and other means of communicating affection for the mothers of the land.

Maryville florists report the largest business in the history of Mothers Day. In spite of the general belief that the carnation is the most popular for this event, roses, sweet peas, lilies, snap-dragons, potted plants and others proved equally popular, if not more so. One local florist pointed out that there is a general belief that the carnation has been made the "official" Mothers Day flower, but this is not correct. All flowers are appropriate for this occasion, he said, but the theory that the bright-colored ones should be worn in honor of the living and the white for the dead is correct.

The Western Union telegraph office here reports about 400 per cent increase in both the incoming and outgoing messages as compared with last year. The operator here was busy until yesterday afternoon receiving and sending the special Mothers Day messages.

At the postoffice, Fred French, assistant postmaster, believes that the regular and special delivery business this year was far in excess of any previous Mothers Day. Both packages and greetings were sent special delivery to be delivered yesterday. Others, of course, were sent without the special delivery stamp being attached and were delivered Saturday.

Boxes of candy and Mothers Day greeting cards are growing in popularity every year, local dealers said today. At one place it was stated that this business had more than doubled within the last two years.

Special Mothers Day services were held at all of the Protestant churches yesterday morning and large crowds were reported present.

At the Baptist Church, Mrs. James Hunt was the oldest mother present at the service and was presented with a book of Edgar A. Guest's poems. Mrs. Hunt is 86 years old. Mrs. J. L. Breedlove was the mother present who had the most children, there being nine in the family. She was also given a book of Mr. Guest's poems. Mrs. Ed Brewer was the mother who had the most children present at the service at the Baptist Church yesterday morning. Seven of her children were present.

Yesterday was one day in the year when dad had to take a back seat and join with others in paying tribute to mother.

STOP DEMONSTRATIONS

Communists' Agitation for Strike Fails —Radical Kept Away From the Line of March.

Berlin, May 11.— President-elect Paul Von Hindenburg arrived late this afternoon in Berlin, a capital gay with flags and teeming with cheering thousands, who welcomed him.

Sixteen thousand police, the largest number mobilized since the revolution, were on guard against disorders.

Berlin, May 11.—Ten thousand members of the Berlin police force were mobilized today to crush in its beginning any attempt of Communists to use the entry into Berlin of president-elect Paul Von Hindenburg as an occasion for demonstrations.

Streets are being patrolled by motor cycle officers, motor boats are guarding waterways and police dogs are in reserve for emergencies.

Police have learned that the reds have planned numerous demonstrations coincident with the arrival of the president-elect, and have taken care that these radicals will be kept away from any approach to the line of march.

The communists agitation for a twenty-four-hour strike failed, the socialist democrats refusing their support to the proposal.

The drizzling rain did not deter preparations for the thousands expected to attend the ceremonies. Although the train bringing the president elect was not due until 5:30 o'clock this afternoon, the streets began to fill at noon.

"I will continue to do my duty," Hindenburg said to crowds in the station just before his train left for Berlin. "I know only unity can save us. I hope to lead the people from strife back to unity."

YOUNG DILLION TO FACE JURY

ST. LOUIS BOY SUBPOENAED FOR TOMORROW.

BUYS GUN APRIL 29

Detectives Also Declare Son of Slain Physician Was in St. Louis at Time of Father's Murder.

St. Louis, May 11.—Freed for the moment, but under a subpoena to appear before a coroner's jury tomorrow, George E. C. Dillon, 19, stepped from a suburban jail shortly before noon today, radiant with a "psychological victory" over police but simultaneously confronted with the damaging bit of evidence yet to be unearthed by detectives seeking to fix upon him the murder of his father, Dr. William A. Dillon.

"We have determined young Dillon was in St. Louis on the night of his father's murder, although he was supposed to be living in Lawrence, Kan.," Fred Mueller, prosecutor, said just before releasing his prisoner.

Lawrence, Kan., May 11.—Edward G. Dillon, St. Louis youth arrested in connection with the murder of his father, Dr. William A. Dillon, purchased a .38 caliber revolver from Abe Wolfson, a pawn broker here, Wolfson stated today. The purchase was made on April 29, the day before Dr. Dillon was found murdered on the campus of Washington University.

Employes in a hardware store adjoining the pawn shop said Dillon bought cartridges for the gun at their store. Wolfson said Dillon explained that he needed the gun for his protection while driving between here and Kansas City. Wolfson's story is corroborated by Ralph Bergman, an employe at the pawn shop.

Hours of persistent questioning on the point by detectives brought only the answer, "I'd be a d——d fool to tell you" from the boy, whose arrogant attitude severely rankled police.

"Well, the old psychology and logic stood by me" the heir to the surgeon's $25,000 insurance was said to have remarked when he emerged from jail, surrounded by his attorneys.

His psychology and logic, of which he claims to be an advanced scholar, consisted largely of mocking police in what he termed their "cheap, third degree efforts."

Former Quitman Man Succumbs to Injuries

Ferril R. Fanning Injured When Motor Car Crashes Into Brick Wall at St. Joseph.

Ferril R. Fanning, 25 years old, of St. Joseph, son of the Rev. and Mrs. John Fanning of Quitman, died at Noyes Hospital in St. Joseph at 5 o'clock yesterday morning from injuries received when a motor car in which he was riding crashed into the brick wall of the office of the Goetz brewery, on Albemarle street, at the end of Sixth street in St. Joseph, at 12:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

Claude Arnold, 20, 2432 South Twelfth street, St. Joseph, driver of the car, was arrested yesterday on a state warrant charging him with operating a motor car while intoxicated. He was turned over to Sheriff Harvey Boyle. Arnold was arrested on May 2 on a charge of speeding and paid a fine of $16 in police court.

Many Commercial Courses Will Be Offered Here This Summer

The students who attend the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College this summer will have an unusual opportunity for selecion of courses in the Commercial department.

Since C. W. Rogers connection with the commercial department last fall he has added numerous improvements. He now announces that the schedule planned for the summer quarter will meet all demands for instruction in commerce. Students who have had only a small amount of instruction along this line may find the continuation of their course in the classes which are being planned.

All courses in typewriting are offered, from several classes in beginning typewriting to the fourth quarter course, which takes up speed work. The course numbers are 12a, 12b, 12c, and 12d.

Likewise, in shorthand, there are four courses offered so that anyone who has had a beginning course may continue with the work. These courses are 71a, 71b, 71c, and 103c.

Business orrespondence 95 will be offered. It takes up office work from the manager's point of view rather than from the stenographer's. Office Management 97 is a course in office training for the stenograher.

Six penmanship methods classes will be given and more added if needed. There will be a class each period during the first six periods of the day. When asked why so many classes in penmanship are to be offered, Mr. Rogers said that "penmanship had fallen to such a low status in Missouri that the Teachers olleges in the state were asked to offer classes in that subject and that there seems to be such a demand for it in the summer that it is necessary to have at least six classes." To illustrate the need for penmanship he said that in one of his classes this year practically everyone stated that they had not had penmanship in the public schools, and that some students admitted that there were many of the letters, especially capitals, that they did not know how to make.

One of the outstanding features of the commercial work offered this summer is an accounting course which Mr. Rogers terms a "Survey Course." In this course five different accounting texts are studied with the purpose of getting each author's view on accounting phases. Each week a certain phase of accounting is taken up while a study is made of each author's method of handling the problem. It is Mr Rogers belief that a teacher who goes out to teach accounting work should have a knowledge of accountancy as advanced by the best accountants in the country rather than to try to teach such work with only the knowledge of the text-book which has been studied in the regular courses.

The authors of the texts to be studied this summer are all well-known accountants, three of them being Certified Public Accountants. Kester is connected with the Columbia University of New York. McKinsey is head of accounting in the University of Chicago; Baker is author of "Twentieth Century Bookkeeping" the same text that has been used in the earlier courses. It will be used largely as a comparison with the other texts. "Twentieth Century Bookkeeping" is the text used by 60 per cent of the schools in Missouri and by 68 per cent of the schools in the United States. Scovill is head of the accounting department of the University of Illinois. Finney is with the Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

The second course in commercial law will be offered this summer. Anyone may take the second course even though they have not had the first course. The work taken up will deal with the organization and management of partnerships and corporations, as well as the legal aspects, rights of stockholders, liabilities and dissolutions of the two business forms.

Miss Minnie James who has been attending Columbia University, New York, instructor in the commercial department and attending the University on leave of absence, will return to Maryville for the summer and resume her teaching during the summer term.

She Wears Dress of 18,000 Pearls

One of the most bizarre costumes ever seen in motion picture is said to be worn by Aileen Pringle in "A Thief in Paradise," the new First National picture coming to the Empire Theater tonight and Tuesday.

Solid ropes of pearls form the diaphanous skirt, headdress and bodice. A huge cape of silver net strung with pearls complete the beautiful affair.

Aileen symbolizes a pearl in an exotic dance staged on the ocean's bed, twenty feet underseas. It forms one of the many novel scenes shown in "A Thief in Paradise." Ronald Colman and Doris Kenyon are co-featured with Aileen Pringle in the cast with Claude Gillingwater, Alec Francis and John Patrick heading the support.

WHEAT 88 PER CENT NORMAL

ESTIMATE ACREAGE FOR HARVEST AT 30,550.

OTHER CROPS GOOD

Missouri Hay Crop Off to Good Start —Farm Work Is Ahead of Last Year, Labor Supply Equals the Demand.

The farmers of Nodaway County, taking account of the effect of winter upon the fall seeding of wheat, estimate their wheat acreage going to harvest at 30,550 acres, with a condition of 88 per cent normal. Other spring crop conditions are hay 87 per cent, pastures 98 per cent, corn acreages planted on May 1st, 12 per cent, oats condition 97 per cent, apples 80 per cent, cherries and plums 87 per cent.

The May condition of Missouri wheat is 89 per cent normal, forecasting a yield of 13.35 bushels per acre, totaling 30,865,000 bushels upon 2,312,000 acres going to harvest, according to E. A. Logan of the U. S. Bureau, of Agricultural Economics and Jewell Mayes of the State Board of Agriculture. The yield in 1924 was 24,589,000 bushels from 1,924,000 acres.

Missouri wheat came through winter in better condition than was expected from December storms, and only 1.5 per cent of the seeded acreage has been abandoned, leaving 2,312,000 acres for harvest of the 2,347,000 acres sown. The crop made good progress during April, except in southern and central east counties. Moisture was needed during first half of April. Conditions are above average in all other sections. Abandonment is lowest for several years. Chinch bugs are thick in Bates, Moniteau, Morgan, and are reported in Marion, with some fly also in Marion. National winter wheat crop 444,833,000 against 590,037,000 last year.

Rye is 90 per cent upon 22,000 acres, or a total of 277,000 bushels forecast. Oats 91 per cent, crop is in good condition in all sections except southeast and a portion of northeast counties. For the past few years, the acreage has been 1,200,000 to 1,500,000 and is still further increased for 1925. The crop was sown earlier than in the past few years, and progress has been favorable.

The Missouri hay crop is off to a good start. Condition of tame hay is 91 per cent against 84 per cent last year; wild hay 92 per cent compared to 80 per cent. Pastures are 92 per cent against 80 per cent last year, and good in all sections with recent rains helping. Pastures have afforded livestock full feed for some time.

Fruit prospects were not severely injured by recent frosts. Apples are 82 per cent normal compared to 80 per cent last year; peaches 60 per cent against 40 per cent; cherries and plums 77 per cent and strawberries 96 per cent. Frost did considerable damage to strawberries in local areas. Most fruit had a heavy bloom.

Farm work is considerably ahead of last year, with plowing 74 per cent completed compared to 65 per cent, and spring seeding 61 per cent finished against 55 per cent last year. Labor supply almost equal to demand, except in scattered localities of northwest corn counties and the southeast cotton section.

Livestock are generally in excellent condition. Pastures are fine. Mortality from diseases and exposure during the past winter were less than the preceding year, and losses from hog cholera were approximately one-half the preceding year. Condition of livestock is above a year ago.

Missouri farm prospects for May are promising. The season is earlier than usual, and farm work is well along. The soil works well, having sufficient moisture for present needs. Missouri crops are ready for rapid progress with warm weather, although somewhat retarded by the Maytime cool spell.

Chicago C. of C. Wants Good Broncho Rider

Steer Wrestlers And Calf Ropers Are Also Needed For Roundup Which Is To Be Held There.

Does Nodaway county boast of a good broncho rider, steer wrestler or calf roper? Or a fellow adept at trick and fancy riding? He may now be covering a policeman's beat, employed as delivery man for a moving concern, clerking in a store or holding down an office job, but if he still has the spirit of the plains and ranges in him and thinks he's no back number, he's wanted. The Chicago Association of Commerce is putting on a "Roundup" August 15 to 23 and has asked help in finding persons formerly having a part of the life of the great West.

Thirty thousand dollars in cash purses, in addition to world's championship titles, belts and trophies will go to the victors of the "Chicago Roundup" which is to be held in the Grant Park Stadium under the direction of Tex Austin, famous rodeo man, and it is thought that there may be some one in Nodaway County who is still good enough to try and run away with a part of this money.

WINS MATCH AT CLARINDA

MARYVILLE TEAM ANNEXES ALL HONORS YESTERDAY.

4 CLUBS REPRESENTED

Sims High in Pars, Gillam Gets Most Bogies and Vogt Second Low Man for Medal Score.

The Iowa-Missouri Golf Association tournament started off yesterday with a glorious victory for the Maryville team, playing at Clarinda, Ia., against Clarinda, Shenandoah and Red Oak, considered the three strongest clubs in the Association.

Not only did the Maryville players win the most number of pars and bogies, and have low medal score, but beat the Clarinda players on their own course. A high wind bothered the players, preventing lower scores.

Sims of Maryville took the honors for the day among the twenty-four tournament players in the number of pars in the eighteen hole match. He made seven pars on the two trips around the nine hole course. Gillam was high point man in the number of bogies made during the matches yesterday, getting eleven and Vogt was second for low score, turning in a card of 81. Vaughn of Shenandoah took the first honor for medal score with one stroke less.

The matches were played in foursomes, each foursome being made up of a player from each club. The Maryville team was comprised of C. G. Vogt, Forrest Gillam, F. S. Miller, Dr. H. S. Dowell, H. F. Lawrence and M. V. Sims.

The scores made by each team at the Clarinda Country Club yesterday:

Team	Pars	Bogies	Medal
Maryville	25	49	517
Clarinda	21	41	530
Shenandoah	20	41	531
Red Oak	13	33	559

A 10-9 GAME TO MARYVILLE

TEN INNINGS NECESSARY IN MOTHER'S DAY GAME.

STANBERRY HERE NEXT

Rock Port Takes Lead in First Two Innings, But Local Batters Knock Two Hurlers Out of Box.

With the score tied 9-all in the last half of the tenth and Liley and Meyers on third and second bases, Cheesman, Rock Port second baseman, threw a wild heave to Karns, third baseman, that let Liley in for the winning run of a long game with Rock Port yesterday afternoon on the local diamond at the Fairgrounds.

It was Mother's Day game for the Maryville Merchants' Baseball Club and there was a fair-sized crowd to witness the game. Next Sunday Stanberry will oppose the M. M. B. C. here.

Gordon Joy started on the mound for Maryville. The visitors got a run off of him in the first inning. In the second he retired two in succession. Poor support on the part of the infield with three hits by the Rock Port aggregation, let in five scores. Buhler went to the mound and pitched for the remaining seven innings. In the third frame Maryville got to McBride's curves for four runs and he was jerked, Parker, an old-time ball player, taking the mound.

Maryville players touched him for two runs in the sixth and Dunlap came in from center field to finish the game. At the end of the seventh the local club was in the lead one score. The visitors brought in a run to tie the count in ninth, making another inning necessary.

For the Greater Good of the Greater Number

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has grown great over a period of years, by supplying an insistent demand for the type of service which it is supremely able to render.

This Company, always alert to utilize the most advanced thought in the refining and marketing of petroleum products has kept its service at all times a step ahead.

"A definite scientific trend in business methods," says William Basset, "has developed during the last few years. To succeed permanently, an enterprise must move in harmony with this trend; to resist it is to insure ultimate failure."

The best business thought of today is scientific. This thought applies to industrial management, as well as to industrial production.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) maintains an unvarying standard in the goods it manufactures because it knows that by maintaining these standards a greater service can, and will, be rendered its patrons. Its selling prices are based on costs. This policy enables it to sell its standard, high-quality gasoline and oils at consistently low prices, and at the same time to pay adequate wages to its employes and a proper return to its stockholders.

Only by such well rounded skill in management can lasting service to society be rendered. Labor, capital, consumer demand and selling price are all inextricably interwoven. Not one of these factors can be ignored if an industrial organization is to remain in business.

At times these elements seem to be in conflict. Customers want lower prices, labor wants higher wages, stockholders want more return from their investment. But an organization efficiently co-ordinated as is the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) finds it possible to maintain an equitable balance, so that in the end it renders the greater good of the greater number.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) applies its ability in organization; in production; in handling capital; in management of labor and in all-around efficiency to the service of society. This Company has added vastly to the security, power, opportunity and comfort of life as we know it today. It has made possible the harnessing of millions of machines, and of hundreds of thousands of motors, to transform and improve every phase of human existence.

EX-GOV. DAVIS TALKS AGAIN

FORMER STATE EXECUTIVE KANSAS GOES ON TRIAL.

FACES CRIMINAL COURT

Will Not Put Himself Forward as a Candidate But Would Not Refuse Nomination If Offered.

Topeka, Kan., May 11—Jonathan M. Davis, former governor of Kansas, in an interview today parted the curtain of silence he has drawn around himself since he was charged with conspiracy and solicitation of a bribe in connection with pardon cases.

The former state executive goes on trial today, the first Kansas chief executive ever to face a criminal court.

For the first time, Mr. Davis, who won his seat as the "dirt farmer" candidate of the Democratic party, answered the question of whether in the event of acquittal, he would seek further vindication of the people at the polls. He replied that he would, although he has no political aspirations of any kind.

At the same time the former governor made it plain that he will not put himself forward as a candidate for governor but at the same time he will refuse the nomination if it is offered him. He said he was human enough and believes enough in the need of a farm candidate not to turn his back on the nomination nor to refuse the advantage of a successful outcome of the present trial.

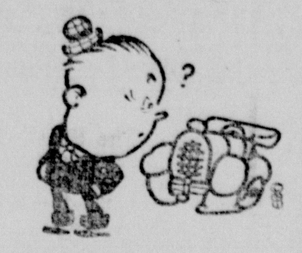
Selection of jurors began with the qualifying of twenty-one men as in a civil case. The state's questioning was done by Edward Rooney, assistant county prosecutor. The work was slow. Three men had been excused before noon when they expressed opinions in the case. All those questioned declared they would not be influenced by the fact that Mr. Davis was a former governor of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Rist left last night for Wymore, Nebr., to visit the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stahl. Mrs. Rist will remain for a two weeks visit, Mr. Rist returning in a few days.

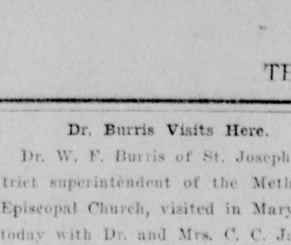
Dr. Burris Visits Here.

Dr. W. F. Burris of St. Joseph, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church, visited in Maryville today with Dr. and Mrs. C. C. James. He conducted quarterly conference yesterday at Sheridan, Myrtle Tree and Hopkins.

Our Own Movies

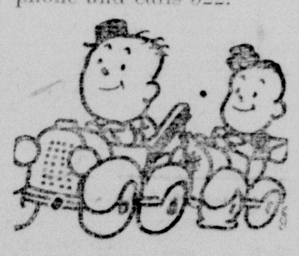


Bill Jones had driven his car over many rought and rugged roads. The old bus got kinda' weak in the joints and Bill chirped, "Well, I guess she's about ready to give up the ghost for good.

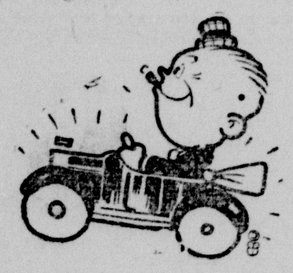


Along trots a friend. Sounds out Bill and epaculates, "Say, that bus of yours ain't ready for the scrap pile by a long shot. Give the O-K Garage a ring. They'll take it in and bring it back to you a-hitting like a brand new Rolls-Royce"

Bill was a little dubious. "But," he figured, "can't do any more than try 'em. Maybe they can make her kick dust for a mile or two more." He grabs for a phone and calls 522.



Gets quick action. The service car is after Bill's bus before he has hardly hung up the receiver. The parade starts for the O-K Garage.



And NOW, well, have you seen Bill lately? He's as proud of the old bus as a kid with a pair of new shoes. The mechanics at the O-K Garage did such a thorough job of repairing and putting it in first class shape that Bill hardly knew the bus when he got it back. And the charges were so little, Bill just grinned from ear to ear.

Modern Payroll Check Plan Displacing Old Pay Envelope

Industry's New System Appeals to Employer and Employee.

A BLIND MAN evolved the simplest payroll plan of which there is any record in the United States.

The late Charles "Broadway" Rouse, a picturesque New York character, for many years had a store on lower Broadway. He recruited his employees from the down-and-outers. Their daily wage was fixed at one dollar. Every evening Rouse stationed himself at the employees' exit with a bag of silver dollars. As each employee passed, Rouse dipped his hand into the bag and brought forth a shining "cartwheel."

For Rouse it was an ideal plan. However, changing conditions have brought a woeful freight of complications which are combining to supplant the cash pay-roll with a new system. The pay-roll check has come into being. The time-honored line filing tediously past the cashier's window on Saturday afternoon is about to pass into tradition, and the bank check is becoming familiar to thousands who previously had known only government currency.

When the Whistle Blows

A feature of the pay-by-check plan that has met with general favor among employees is the distribution of the pay checks to the men while they are at their various tasks. The Saturday noon whistle ends the week. The pay-roll line has gone. There is no quibbling over errors in amounts. The check speaks for itself. There are no lost pay envelopes, and a lost check means merely the issuance of a duplicate.

Nor is the paymaster sorry. A million and a half dollars stolen and 32 men killed by pay-roll bandits is the twelve months' toll that has had tremendous effect in introducing the check plan. Hold-up insurance can cover the loss of money, but there remains the hazard of life to which business men hesitate to expose their employees. Transportation of large sums of cash through the streets, over highways or on trains creates a lure to which all too many bandits are anxious to succumb. The lesson of prevention has been driven home to the business man, and the pay-roll bandit is finding leaner and leaner pickings.

Time and Money Saved

Heads of large industries who have abandoned the cash system in favor of the check plan state that the community is equally interested with the employer and employee in pay-roll methods.

On the one hand the old practice of paying by cash makes possible extensive pay-roll robberies, jeopardizes lives of paymasters and messengers; imposes unnecessary burdens upon police departments; induces extravagance among hundreds of people; and is generally an economic loss to the community.

On the other hand, paying by check prevents loss and crime; saves the cost of pay-roll insurance; releases police for normal duties; encourages thrift among employees and increases bank deposits; and makes more capital available for home building and community improvements.

These are the outstanding benefits as viewed after the plan has been put into operation. But sometimes employers are inclined to hesitate to pay by check out of fear of misunderstanding on the part of employees.

Employees' Viewpoint

Often a natural misgiving as to the reason for the change may influence the employee, say employers. We may be inclined to regard the check as necessitating an additional step in the collection of his pay. Necessity for cashing his check before he is able to spend any part of it may occur to him as a thoroughly practical objection.

In actual practice, however, employers using the check plan say that these difficulties almost invariably disappear when the employee finds himself leaving a portion of his check with the savings bank, and when he finds that getting a check cashed in a country where six billion checks are written annually is a simple undertaking.

Changed Attitude

Surveys by business organizations and large industries have shown that almost invariably, where employees feared to break away from the old pay-envelope system, they have very quickly become far more emphatic in support of the pay-by-check plan, and would oppose any attempt to pay them in cash.

These investigations have further determined that modern check protection methods, safeguarding checks against forgery or alteration, have definitely established this form of currency in the confidence of the employee and the public.

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

LADY-BUGS, NEW CLOTHES

IF A lady-bug lights on your hand it means a pair of new gloves, if on your dress a new dress, if on your shoes a new pair of shoes, etc. This, according to the journal of the American Folk-Lore Society, is a common superstition in Massachusetts and Upper Canada. The genesis of it is easy to discover. The lady-bug was the especial pet and representative of the Norse Goddess Freya, the goddess of fruitfulness and the dispenser of good gifts.

To this day the Scandinavian and North German farmers look for good crops when they see the lady-bugs unusually plentiful, and Teutonic and Norse mythology and folk-lore is full of good words regarding the spotted, little, winged insect whose markings are said to be those of the sun, in which radiant orb, according to one version, Freya had her home. From the attributes assigned to Freya it would appear that her worship was compounded of sun-worship and of the worship of the procreative forces of nature. At any rate she was bounteous in her bestowal of good gifts, and so when one of her bright little representatives alights upon any article of clothing you are wearing, it naturally indicates that the beneficent goddess is going to make you a present of a new garment of the same description.

Three Umbrellas

By SIDNEY M. WILDHOLT

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

IT WAS raining outside: a gray day of storm.

An old-fashioned umbrella stand, with the dented tin catch-basin at the bottom, stood in a gloomy hall, holding two specimens of mankind's chief protection against rain—a black cotton one, with a gnarled and a curved wooden handle, and a dainty red silk one.

A small, white hand reached out in the uncertain light of the dim hall, grasped the white and red handle of the silk umbrella, drew it stealthily from its furniture-sheath of walnut, and moved cautiously with it toward the door, which let a wisp of a girl out into the rain.

She came suddenly upon her destination—a damp corner, with a young man standing impatiently on it, holding a black umbrella big enough for two.

"Did you get it?" he demanded with masculine abruptness.

"Yes," breathlessly. Timidly, a bit hesitantly. "And—and—did you get—it?" Quite obviously a very different "it" from his.

He nodded. With a significant protective gesture he took her small umbrella, closed it, and tucking it securely under an arm, he led her away.

Back in the dim hall, with its funny old-fashioned stand, the deserted storm-stick that had seen younger and better days did not remain neglected for long. A scrawny hand, with the bone-fingered talons of age, clasped it tensely, almost angrily, and snatched it out in haste.

The search through the damp-darkened streets was fruitless. Weary, the old man returned to the dim hall and to his favorite armchair.

"She's gone," he murmured at intervals, "gone."

A door slammed in the carefree exuberance of youth.

The old man sat up sternly. "Who's there?"

No sound, no motion, came from the black pit beyond the door.

"Who's there?" louder.

A whisper of sound and then the answer, soft and timidly hesitant: "Me, d-daddy—it's me—"

Instead of stiffening normally, the stern form of the old man grew less taut. "Thyra—come in—come in—You—you came back?" Uncertainly.

A brief pause. "Yes—w-i—" a vague stumble over the preposition, "came back—to tell you—"

"Not to tell me you were going away, Thyra?" Sudden alarm quickened the man's high-pitched voice.

A longer pause. "May I have a match, d-daddy?"

The fumbled scratching of a brimstone tip, a lifted lamp chimney—and there was much-needed light.

Two had entered; the other was the young man of the street corner, still holding the two umbrellas, black and red.

An explanation was indisputably in order.

"Tom, please." The girl held out a hand to the young man. One by one, he gave her two papers—legal documents, the first "it" and second, respectively. She spread them on the table.

"My birth certificate, d-dad—" she balked a little at the name. "I found it."

The old man's deep-sunken eyes glittered a moment, but the gleam faded. "Then you know?" he asked, with slow distinctness.

"Only that—you're not—my daddy," a bit coldly.

The weary head fell forward weakly, bowing in penitent shame. "I have been harsh, Thyra—forgive me."

Impulsively Thyra leaned forward and kissed the wrinkled forehead, brushing away stray wisps of hair with a soothing hand.

"It was in that room—" the old man pointed directly overhead. "Your mother—a childhood friend—" he told the story in broken reminiscence. "I took her in, broken-hearted and alone. When she—" he paused, omitting the word. "She had asked me if I would—take care of you—like a father," the wavering voice broke, "and I—I—"

"It's all right—d-daddy," came the soft, soothing voice.

"But you—you ran away?" he accused, remembering.

She let fall her eyes with winsome embarrassment. "Yes, I—I had to, d-daddy."

The old man became aware of the third occupant of the room, who was still standing, awkwardly holding two umbrellas. "Who—"

Thyra hastened to fill the breach. "The other paper—our marriage license, d-daddy."

Totteringly, the shaggy figure got to his feet. Slowly the old man turned.

A wan smile overspread the bewhiskered mouth. "You've come back," said the lips. He turned again to the young man. "The umbrellas, lad, reaching for them. "Let me take them." He picked up his own, by the chair.

Again in the dim hall, a gaunt hand placed three umbrellas—first a black, then a red, and another black—in the funny old stand. He gazed at them in the hazy glow from the inner room. A pushing finger caused the red and younger black to lean together caressingly. He smiled delightedly.

"Perhaps," he murmured, "later on— There's room—yet—for another one—a little umbrella, too," musingly happy.

GAS IS A SUPER-FUEL, UTILITY OFFICIAL SAYS

Joplin, Mo., May 8—"We are just now entering upon what very well may be termed the 'gas age,'" declared Charles A. Munroe, chairman of the board of the Laclede Gas Light Company of St. Louis, in an address delivered here today to members of the Missouri Association of Public Utilities.

"The use of gas as fuel is increasing extensively and steadily year by year," Munroe continued. "And as yet only a beginning has been made in turning over to gas the fuel work of this generation, which is its logical heritage.

"Because it is supreme in producing an efficient heat of precision, and because its use results in an economy of labor and eliminates the storage, dirt and smoke factors, gas has come to be known as a super-fuel.

"Science and invention have applied it to profitable use in hundreds of operations in industry, and it is now being employed widely in space-heating. Gas is especially desirable for house-heating because of its cleanliness and because most modern gas house-heating equipment provides for thermostatic control, thus rendering its operation automatic.

"Then, too, movements to conserve the nation's natural fuel supply and to rid American cities of their smoke-curses have advanced the cause of gas.

"In fact, if the dreams of gas engineers are realized, the next 25 years may see the gas holders (the large drum-shaped storage tanks by which gas plants are recognized) become the fuel bins of America."

Munroe also discussed in detail, scientific and mechanical refinements in methods and apparatus for gas manufacture, by which the industry is enabled to produce gas more efficiently.

Clement Rickman of Hopkins visited Jesse Michaelson yesterday.

Soap Used in Sculpture Work at College Here

Art Classes Copy Classical and Create Original Designs—Fad Rapidly Spreading To Townsfolk.

Teaching college students the history and appreciation of classical Greek sculpture with the aid of soap may seem a bit incongruous, but it is being done at the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College here. Miss Olive DeLuce, head of the department of fine arts, is teaching her classes sculpturing in marble as done by the ancients by having them copy the statues in blocks of soap, and the experiment has been found entirely satisfactory.

The popularity of the art department of the Teachers College has increased wonderfully and the entire school has become interested in the new idea. Local grocers have found it necessary to increase their orders of soap in order to supply the demand. Many students of the college who are not regularly enrolled in the art classes have attempted soap carving and results are interesting. Also some of the townspeople—not students—are carrying bars of soap and knives in their pockets and practicing at spare times. Modeling clay has been used in the art department of the college several years, but it does not serve all purposes.

Miss DeLuce has her classes study all available accounts of the manner in which the ancient sculptors worked. Reproductions of statues, several of which are placed in the library and corridors of the administration building of the college are studied and photographs are examined. Sketches of the figures are made, in order to determine the correct proportions of the statue to be carved. Some allowed water to run over the completed miniature in order to give it a smooth finish and some of the pieces are painted.

The members of the art classes have had no previous training in stone, soap or wood carving. Several have created original pieces. "Spark Plug," "The Football Player" and "The "Book," are titles given three original creations. The "Discobolus," by Myron, was made in miniature by Lon Wilson of Trenton, Mo., ex-captain of the college football team. Webb Young, also of Trenton, another football star, reproduced "The Thinker," by Rodin, and the "Dying Gaul." Martha Hass, a young woman student from Bethany, carved "Winged Victory."

Unique Work Austrian R. C. Jrs. Is Received

Portfolio of Brilliant Water Color Drawings Sent to Red Cross Juniors at Burlington Junction.

A portfolio of unusual design and colors, showing particular painstaking work, of water color drawings, has been received at the local Red Cross office from the pupils between the ages of 10 and 14 years of the Buergerschule, Steinburg, bez, Oberpullendor, Burgenland, Austria.

It was sent here in the Junior Red Cross foreign exchange division and designated for the pupils enrolled in the Junior Red Cross of the seventh and eighth grades, Burlington Junction, Miss Addie Carpenter, teacher.

The message of greeting on the inside cover, as conveyed by a dove with a letter in its bill says "The dove on this picture brings best messages from us."

Translations of two letters written by Austrian pupils, that accompanied the portfolio are as follows:

"Dear Unknown Friends:

"Many thanks for your kind letters. We want to be friends with you. We are the third grade. We are 56 pupils and are always full of fun, especially in the drawing lesson. Our school is in a monastery. Behind it there is an immense meadow. In the brook before the monastery we are bathing in summer. Spring is coming now in our country. I have found some flowers already. We are glad that winter has left us. He is such a rough fellow. We must tell you that our birds are not so fine and have no gay colors as the birds, the pictures of which you sent us. We enjoyed the pictures very much. We should like to send you a photo of us.

"Many hearty greetings from the,

"JUNIORS OF STEINBERG."

"We send you our most hearty greetings and thank you very much for the beautiful packages you sent us for Christmas presents. We are always reading the Junior Red Cross magazine. Every month we get a copy. Our school is in a monastery. Our grade is the largest of all the grades of the secondary school. We are in the first grade A. We are having much fun. We are always awaiting our drawing lesson with eager expectations. There are also children from the surroundings going to our school. Before the monastery there is a brook. When the brook is frozen we are skating on it. But this winter we had only very little snow and ice. Spring has already come. There are already flowers springing forth. Birds of passage are coming back also. Many hearty greetings from,

"The First Grade Secondary School."

Mother Goose Poems Written at St. Mary's

The following Mother Goose poems were written by the children in St. Mary's parochial school at Maryville in connection with the health program that has been conducted by the nutrition department of the Nodaway County American Red Cross:

Jack be nimble,
Jack be quick,
Jack drank coffee, and Jack got sick.
Wilhelmina Hansen.

Little Jack Sprat,
Was very fat,
The reason he was so,
Was that rich milk, Ho! Ho!
Lucile Grandel.

Mary had a little lamb,
She sat it on a shelf,
Every time it drank some coffee,
It hurt its little self.
Edwin Sturm.

Mother Hubbard went to the cupboard,
To get her children some bread,
When she got there,
She gave them milk instead.
Henrietta Heitman.

Mary, Mary, I must say,
You must drink your milk each day,
This is the way to gain your weight,
Instead of eating chocolate cake.
Wilhelmina Hensen.

Dilly, Dolly, a lazy scholar,
He wouldn't drink milk,
Not for half a dollar.
Dilly, Dolly, you'll never be wise,
Unless you drink milk,
Let this be my advice.
Robert Seipel.
